APPALLING ACCIDENT.

An Appalling Accident Occurs in the Streets of Denver.

A Gang of Laborers Caught by Tons of Falling Earth.

Four Killed in a Shocking Manner—Two Fatally Injured.

Race Trouble Reported from Mississippi—Rifles Called For.

An Awful Accident

DENVER, December 26.—One of the most awful accidents that ever occurred in [illegible] happened at noon to-day on Fifteenth street between Tremont street and Court Place, and resulted in the instant death of four laborers and fatally injuring another. For the past few days the Denver Gas company has been excavating along the cable company's track for the purpose of removing sections of pipe lying directly underneath the roadbed. Running parallel to the outside rail a trench six feet deep had been dug and in many places the ground from beneath the track has been undermined. This lay directly beneath the track, and left absolutely no foundation whatever beneath it. Passengers riding on the cable cars had repeatedly asserted that the excavation was extremely dangerous, and the laborers themselves had been warned of their peril.

It had been their custom at the passage of every car to jump out of the trench until the car was on firmer ground. They had done this this morning when the Broadway car passed, and had scarcely re-entered the trench when the calamity occurred. Suddenly a huge rent appeared, which instantly widened into an immense gap, and instantly the entire track careened, landing across the track at an angle of about forty-five degrees. It had parted as cleanly as if cleft by some sharp instrument. The only warning that had been given was a shout when the huge mass of earth was already in motion. Eleven men, then in the trench, powerless to retreat, simply lay flat on their chests and as the track swayed above their heads it lodged against the opposite wall of earth and they easily crowded out into safety.

Of their six companions, four upon hearing the shout of danger hurriedly attempted to leap from the trench. Their chests had scarcely emerged when the track with tons of earth caught them, the iron rail gradually squeezing them to death. Two others received fatal injuries and were conveyed to the hospital where one has since died. For almost an hour after the accident the bodies of the dead men lay pinioned close to the wall of earth so tightly that all attempts to remove them were futile. A more ghastly sight could not be imagined. Men were immediately set to work with jack screws and the track raised.

The dead are Joseph Trainor, married, leaves a wife; William Haley, married; S. N. Wilson, married, large family; Mike Dillon, single; an unknown man, aged about 40. James McCuen, badly injured; recovery impossible. No little indignation is expressed toward the gas company, who are blamed for the accident because of their neglect in placing props in the excavation.

Winchesters Wanted.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., December 26.—A private telegram was received here to-night saying there was a negro riot in progress in Lamar, Miss., and asking that some Winchester rifles be sent on the first train. Lamar is just twelve miles south of Grand Junction, Tenn., on the line of the Illinois Central railroad. Every effort has been made to get at the facts, but no response to telegrams sent had been received up to midnight. It is rumored that two whites and five negroes have been killed.

Immigration Inquiry

DETROIT, Mich., December 26.—Congressman Ford's immigration committee heard evidence to-day. It was to the effect that many Canadians were in the habit of working in Michigan during the lumbering season, returning to Canada at the close, also many alien paupers and insane from Canada and Europe made their way across the line and had to be supported here.

A Congressional Contest

BALTIMORE, Md., December 26.—Sydney Mudd, republican candidate for congress in the Fifth Maryland district, has notified Barnes Compton that he will contest his seat in congress. He alleges intimidation and other irregularities.

A Murder Mystery.

PHILADELPHIA, December 26.—A party of boys while playing in East Fairmount park to-day inside the limits of the new city reservoir found two bundles in section number 34. A six inch water main is stored there, in which were the mutilated remains of a human body. Evidently a most horrible murder had been committed. The legs had been cut off close to the trunk, the left one having been cut with a sharp knife and been sawed through. The other leg was likewise cut and the bone was partly sawed. On the trunk were three shirts, the outer one being made of dark flannel. A leather strap was around the waist. The arms were nearly severed from the body but were tied in front at the wrists with a [illegible] cord. The head was crushed in a horrible manner at the back and there were three terrible knife wounds in the face. The left jaw was also broken. The body is that of a German, probably about 35 years of age. On the margin of a paper found near by was written in English, the writing being evidently that of a German, the words "Kate Kleb, Hoboken hotel," and right under this "Mrs." repeated several times. A portion of another newspaper stained with blood was also found.

There are wagon tracks all around the spot, but the police are of the opinion that they were made by wagons hauling material used in the reservoir. Tracks, however, [illegible] which [illegible] gating the case [illegible] prove a clue to the [illegible]. Late last night a gardener living on the [illegible] of the park near where the [illegible] were found was awakened [illegible] of his dogs. He [illegible] and ran out doors. He saw a buggy coming from the direction of the park and [illegible]. He went to the nearest [illegible] the proprietor [illegible] went out into the street [illegible] walking from the direction of the reservoir. He called to the man to halt but his command received no attention and the mysterious visitor to the park disappeared in the darkness. The spot where the ghastly remains were found is a very lonely one and at this time of the year is seldom ever visited by any one and the police therefore think the buggy seen by Hines and the [illegible] connected with the crime, which led to the placing of the body in a neglected portion of the park.

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, December 26.—Money on call easy [illegible] prime paper 5 to 6½. Owing to the absence of foreign orders in the market there was less animation to-day. Prices on the whole were very well maintained and reactions were not sustained excepting grangers and coalers. In the last hour the market developed considerable activity, and closed active and firm, generally a fraction under opening figures. Final changes are irregular but generally lower, while Lake Shore rose 1⅛, and Delaware and Hudson lost 1½. Governments steady.

The Stolen Bond Case

CHICAGO, December 26.—The grand jury, after considering the stolen bond case in which Lawyer Cutting was so prominently implicated, to-day found two true bills of burglary and two of receiving stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, against each of the following: W. T. Shaw, Henry [illegible], C. D. Taylor and Otis Cutting. The latter is Shaw's father-in-law and will be brought from Council Bluffs, Ia., to-morrow, requisition having been obtained and forwarded. Inspector Bonfield testified before the grand jury and told his discoveries in the case. He said he had recovered all the bonds taken from Kellogg, Johnson, Bliss & [illegible], Wampold & Co., and was ordered to produce them, which he did. The bonds were immediately identified by their owners.

Confession of a Boy Forger

CINCINNATI, December 26.—Charles Tinkler, a boy of 19, who in September last forged three checks for $1,900 each on banks with which his employers, the Bodmann tobacco warehouse, had accounts, and who afterward went to London, where he was arrested, to-day made confession of his guilt. He accuses W. H. Hopkins of instigating him to the crime. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Hopkins as an accessory, and the way seems clear for both to go to the penitentiary.

General Stanley's Arrest.

WASHINGTON, December 26.—The war department has received additional particulars concerning the arrest of General Stanley, commanding the department of Texas, but issued no instructions to him regarding his future actions. He says it is explained fully by discretion in the matter of taking possession of property ordered to Austin for that purpose, if he deems necessary. The question of his defense before the civil courts has been referred to the attorney-general.

Work for McAuliffe.

NEW YORK, December 26.—The following dispatch was received from the California club of San Francisco: The prize fight for a $3,500 purse, offered by this club, for Joe McAuliffe, champion of the Pacific slope, and Peter Jackson, heavy weight champion of New South Wales, will be fought in February. Betting is $100 to $80 on McAuliffe. If John L. Sullivan refuses to fight Jake Kilrain for $20,000 and the Police Gazette belt which denotes the championship, McAuliffe will take his place.

An Unpunished Villain.

ESCANABA, Mich., December 26.—The Mirror makes the public statement that W. W. Mulliken, an old and prominent physician, has been habitually debauching young girls, some as young as ten years. His victims in all are said to number forty. His misdoings was discovered several times, but hushed up to avoid scandal. The matter has at last become notorious. Mulliken was arrested and bailed, but forfeited his bonds and skipped.

Work on the Panama Canal.

PANAMA, via Galveston, December 26.—Work on the canal continues, although on some sections the labor has been reduced. Altogether 2,600 men have been discharged in the past two months, owing to disputes between the canal company and contractors. Highest authorities consider total suspension of the work as very improbable. There are now about 9,000 laborers actually engaged on the works.

General Logan's Remains

WASHINGTON, December 26.—The remains of General John A. Logan were to-day removed from the Hutchinson vault in Rock Creek cemetery where they were placed two years ago, to the new Logan chapel in the national soldiers' home cemetery. Logan's remains will be encased in a steel casket and rest on the tiled floor in the centre of the chapel visible to the public through a heavy grated iron door.

Plot Against the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, December 26.—A second inquiry into the recent accident to the czar's train at Harkoff results in attributing the disaster to a criminal conspiracy. All of the recently discharged railway [illegible] will shortly be arrested.

Failure of a Bank

OMAHA, December 26.—A Bee special from Loup City, Neb., says: The Sherman County bank assigned this morning to the sheriff. Cashier M. A. Thies has been absent for some time. B. E. Whaley, the president, is on the ground.

Murder in a Drunken Carousal

UNIONTOWN, Pa., December 26.—At Leisenring, during a drunken carousal, George and Peter Matrelo, brothers, threw Mrs. Dubost, with whom they boarded, down stairs and broke her neck.

FIRE DISASTERS

The Business Portion of Marblehead, Mass., Totally Destroyed.

Six Factories Burned—A Thousand Employes Out of Work.

Another Mississippi Steamboat Consumed by Fire.

A Large Number Perish in the Flames or by Drowning.

A Fire Calamity.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., December 26.—Last night fire burned over an area of twelve acres. The buildings were mainly wooden shells. It seemed as if everywhere [illegible] fire started. In fifteen minutes from the time the fire alarm rang the entire business portion was in flames. Assistance was summoned from Lynn, Salem and Swampscott. [illegible] The entire shoe manufacturing district, the principal business of the town, was burned to the ground. Fully sixty buildings were consumed. The flames spread with such rapidity scarcely anything was saved. Tenants residing in dwelling houses were completely cleaned out. After licking up great shoe factories, sheds, fruit stands and small tenement houses with rapidity, it seemed as if the entire town was doomed. By this time help arrived. The city was flooded with strangers from all surrounding towns. At 3 o'clock the fire was under control.

This stricken old town in June, '77, was visited by a fire which swept over nearly the same district. During the progress of the present fire several explosions were heard. Fully 1600 workmen are thrown out of employment. The number of buildings destroyed is estimated at between 50 and 60. The loss is between $300,000 and $500,000.

The most reliable estimates of the total losses are $500,000. A thousand or more men are thrown out of employment and many families are rendered temporarily homeless. Thirty seven structures were destroyed. Thirteen were dwelling houses, twelve shoe factories and thirteen miscellaneous. So quickly did the flames spread that whole blocks were ruined in fifteen minutes. It is now estimated that nine acres were burned over. Chas. Coats, who broke a leg by jumping from a second story window, is the only injured person reported. The heat on all sides was so intense that curbstones were cracked and crumbled and car rails were twisted out of shape. The water supply was inadequate. None of the manufacturers think it possible to rebuild this winter and there is a general feeling of depression in town.

Another Steamer Burned.

NEW ORLEANS, La., December 27.—A special from Plaquemine to the States says: The burning of the steamer John H. Hanna last night near this place was one of the most terrible river disasters that ever happened in southern waters. The loss is very heavy. About thirty persons perished in the flames and a large number jumped overboard and were drowned. Among the lost are Captain James S. Holmes and First Clerk Samuel R. Powell, their bodies being recovered. Captain Holmes' body was terribly burned.

One of the deck hands who escaped says there were about 100 persons on board and that only about a dozen could be found alive.

The engineer and pilot were saved. All who escaped were burned more or less severely.

The boat was but a short distance above town when a negro roustabout near the boiler room ran out to the deck and shouted that the boat was on fire. John Cullen was near the place at the time and, seeing the flames bursting forth from the big tiers of cotton near the boiler, ran hastily to the engine room and gave the alarm.

Engineer Merriman took in the situation at a glance and at once sounded the alarm by blowing the steam whistle and ringing the bells.

In an instant the flames shot through the cabin and over the sides of the cotton, enveloping the entire boat in fire.

Clerk Powell was up stairs at the time and when he saw the flames he heroically ran through the smoke which filled the cabin, and tried to arouse the sleeping people. He kicked at the doors and in a short time [illegible] awake.

Then confusion worse confounded appeared and frantic people ran to different exits to make their escape but the boat was piled high with cotton and the passage ways were filled with smoke. Many dropped before they were able to get to the forward part of the boat and were dead when the steamer went down.

As soon as fire was discovered, Engineer Merriman set the steam pumps working and tried to battle with the flames, but the fire swept through the boat like a blaze on a prairie and the engine room was soon in flames. Then, to add to the consternation, a steam pipe burst and filled the place with scalding steam. Engineer Merriman was forced to abandon his post and he and the stokers [illegible] to the [illegible] boat and rushed through pell-mell to save their lives.

As soon as the flames began to start up the sides of the boat Captain Holmes, the pilot, swung the wheel around and headed the boat for the shore. A full head of steam was on and the boat soon ran into the bank.

Before she did so, however, she was doomed. All her timber was furiously burning. When the steamer struck the bank she bounded away again and swung [illegible] out of the boat, [illegible] them with scorched faces and bruised limbs and many of them with scarcely any clothing. Among those who managed to get off were Captain Holmes and [illegible] Fred White, who was [illegible] were burned [illegible] death and the story of the [illegible] in which they [illegible].

When the [illegible] was [illegible] and in his frantic desire to be rescued from the [illegible] he was suffering he buried his face and hands in the soft mud and [illegible] piteously for some one to help him. [illegible] death was just behind [illegible]. Nothing could be done for the sufferers and the two died together on the river bank.

Plaquemine was not slumbering when the fire broke out and when the discovery was made that the Hanna was burning almost the entire town flocked to the riverside and watched the vessel burn. The struggling unfortunates who reached the shore were taken care of and the doctors and others came to their assistance and tried to alleviate their sufferings. The City and Central hotels and private houses threw open their doors to the ill-fated people and fed and clothed them until this morning.

No attempt was made to save any of the steamer's books or papers, and everything, together with the clothes of the crew and passengers, was lost.

The boat burned rapidly after she left the bank, and in a very short time after the alarm was given she had burned to the water's edge. The hull sunk and nothing was left of the Hanna but floating timbers and burning cotton.

This evening the impression prevails that the number of lives lost may not exceed thirty, although owing to the fact that the steamer's papers are all burned it is difficult to get at the exact number of people on board the fated boat.

On the arrival of the trains in this city ambulances were at the depot and all survivors of the ill fated steamer who were suffering from severe burns were at once conveyed to the Charity hospital.

Steward Carroll says that some passengers on the boat coming down got off at Baton Rouge. He claims that the passengers that were aboard at the time of the accident were Captain P. C. Montgomery, Mr. Hatpin of the board of underwriters, and a drover and his son. They were all saved.

The second barkeeper of the boat said that Mr. Powell was standing near him when they both jumped into the water. Mr. Powell, who could not swim, climbed upon a floating cotton bale but two deck hands jumped upon the bale turning it over and throwing Mr. Powell into the water and he disappeared.

The boat was about 15 yards from the shore when a great many people plunged into the river, and several who reached the bank in safety became stuck in the soft mud, and so intense was the heat of the burning boat that they were burned to death before they could climb up the steep bank to the levee.

THE DEAD AND INJURED.

NEW ORLEANS, December 26.—The total loss of life so far by the burning of the steamer Hanna is placed at twenty-four. Of the injured men in the hospital four or five will die, among them Givens, the sailor who was the hero of the disaster. His face is horribly burned, the nose gone, eyes burned out, left arm completely burned away and left side and leg charred. The funeral of such victims as have been recovered took place to-day. The flags of the steamers in the harbor were placed at half mast.

West Virginia Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, December 26.—A special to the Post from Charleston, W. Va., says: Governor Wilson to-day issued certificates of election to Congressmen elect Pendleton, democrat, from the First, and Wilson, democrat, from the Second district. Certificates were not issued to congressmen from the Third and Fourth districts.

A Glove Contest.

NEW YORK, December 26.—There was probably never such a crowd at a fisticuff exhibition in Williamsburg as that which congregated to-night at the Palace rink to see a ten-round glove contest, which was known to be but another name for a fight between Jack McAuliffe of Brooklyn and Jake Hyams of England. There were thousands packed in the hall and thousands more who were unable to gain admission. Hyams is 20 years of age, stands 5 feet 7 inches and weighed 135 pounds. McAuliffe is 22 years, 5 feet 6 inches and weighed 135 pounds. Both wore six-ounce regulation boxing gloves. The first round McAuliffe kept close but landed a few stingers. Hyams developed ducking tactics to which McAuliffe soon caught on. There was not much advantage on the round.

In rounds two and three the fighting was pretty severe but McAuliffe had the best of it. He got in some hard punishment on Hyams' head. The latter's blows seemed to be ineffective. In the beginning of the fourth round it was give and take, with the advantage to neither but at the end Hyams was knocked down near the ropes.

In the ninth McAuliffe went in to finish his opponent. After sending a few corkers McAuliffe gave a swinger on the neck that doubled him up and ended the battle. The referee promptly decided the battle in favor of McAuliffe. The battle took 35 minutes and 20 seconds. About $10,000 was taken in at the gate.

Jumped the Track

HELENA, December 26.—The evening passenger train on the Montana Central jumped the track at the outskirts of the city owing to an open switch. [illegible] Lathrop was badly injured, the stove having fallen on him. All others escaped uninjured.

Murphy Accepts.

PHILADELPHIA, December 26.—Frank Murphy, the pugilist, announces his willingness to fight Ike Weir at the rooms of the California Athletic club in San Francisco by next month for a purse of $1500, Murphy to be allowed $250 for expenses, the men to weigh 125 pounds, and each side to post $250 with the New York Clipper as a guarantee to be at the fight.

SEVERE WEATHER

Western States Experience a Touch of Wintry Weather.

A Cold Wave Predicted by the Signal Service People.

Damage Done to Wires by a Heavy Fall of Sleet.

Chicago Police Will not Permit Mrs. Parsons to Lecture.

Eastern Weather.

CHICAGO, December 26.—The signal service predicts a fall of 15 to 20 degrees before morning. A heavy snow and [illegible] at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

As far as heard the storm extends through Iowa, northwestern Missouri and part of Kansas. The fall at most of these points was snow in falling. In the neighborhood of Kansas City it has taken the form of sleet. About noon to-day telegraphic service between this city and Kansas City was almost entirely lost. Since then some improvement has taken place.

KANSAS CITY, December 26.—Last night's sleet and snow worked havoc among the wires. Telegraph companies escaped with the usual embarrassments, delay and roundabout service. The electric light company loses $1,500, and railroads suffer temporary inconvenience. The heaviest loser is the telephone company, which estimates its loss at $10,000. To-night it is growing colder and the snowfall has ceased.

Mrs. Parsons in Chicago.

CHICAGO, December 26.—Hand bills were widely distributed to-day, announcing that Mrs. Lucy Parsons, wife of the executed anarchist, would lecture in Waverly hall to-night. One of the bills was handed to Chief of Police Hubbard, who sent Lieutenant Laughlin to Mr. Laurie, proprietor of the hall, with instructions to order him not to open the place. Mr. Laurie was not satisfied with the message, and waited immediately upon the chief. "I shall send an officer to you to-night," said the chief to Laurie, "who will demand the key of the hall from you. He will then station a policeman at the door, who will refuse admission to the hall. I am perfectly helpless in the matter and any responsibility thereto will be upon the police." The wording of the subject of the lecture was a trifle ambiguous in, that it might include any or all phases of anarchy and socialism. There was no doubt in the minds of the police that Mrs. Parsons intended to say something to cause her arrest, said Chief Hubbard. "Mrs. Parsons can advertise herself all she pleases, but we will not help her to do it. We have private information that she intended to make a violent anarchistic harangue. Then we would have been compelled to arrest her, and you can be sure that it would have been magnified in every way by the anarchists in the argument of their injunction suit to-morrow. The attempted lecture was simply for effect. It is well known that Mrs. Parsons can't refrain from talking of anarchism or [illegible] and we will not experiment with her further. She simply can't speak in Chicago."

CHICAGO, December 26.—The police programme was carried out precisely, and there was no lecture nor meeting. For three hours the narrow stairways leading to the hall were crowded with anarchists' sympathizers, who however took the situation rather good naturedly.

The Opium Smugglers.

ST. PAUL, December 26.—A Pioneer Press special from Bismarck, Dak., says: The opium smuggling case against James Curran has been going on for two days, and to-day the prisoner was on the stand. He testified that he acted as a teamster and did not knowingly carry opium.

A Sheriff in Contempt

AUSTIN, Texas, December 26.—Sheriff White, who refused to jail General Stanley, was arrested to-day for contempt of court. His trial is now in progress.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

John Bright has improved.

Gen. Louis Melikoff, the famous Russian officer, is dead, 61 years.
